Dyer Joins Office of Alumni Relations

FORT WORTH, Texas - Texas Wesleyan University School of Law is pleased to announce the appointment of Casey Dyer '06 as the director of alumni relations and external affairs.

Dyer joins the alumni office from the law school's office of admissions, where she served as the associate director of admissions.

"As an alumna of Texas Wesleyan University School of Law, I am honored to have the opportunity to lead this department and such a distinguished group of former students," Dyer said. "My goal is to provide the community, especially alumni members, with opportunities to stay connected to Texas Wesleyan School of Law.

The office of alumni relations exists to advance the mission of the Texas Wesleyan University School of Law and to help graduates maintain their connection to the school. As an active alumna of the law school, Dyer is well-positioned to maintain this connection.

"As the associate director of admissions, I have had the pleasure of working with current and prospective students," Dyer said. "This experience, coupled with my role on the alumni association board of directors, has been invaluable. With these varied roles, I have witnessed what makes our law school unique – the people.

It is my desire to educate the community about Texas Wesleyan School of Law in order to encourage community-wide participation in furthering our mission to provide quality legal education to a diverse student body committed to serving their communities and the profession."

Dyer said she looks forward to the opportunities she will have to increase alumni awareness about opportunities to stay involved with the law school following graduation.

"I am dedicated to keeping our alumni connected to the school by increasing our outreach initiatives, keeping graduates up-to-date with current events at the law school, and initiating programs and activities on local, state, and national levels to increase awareness about our legal institution," Dyer said. "This year we have an alumni board that is enthusiastic about taking our alumni association and, more importantly, our law school to the next level. I am privileged to be a part of this law school's continued success and look forward to working with the new alumni board."

Interim Dean Cynthia Fountaine said she believes Dyer's previous experience as an alumna of the law school will bring additional strength to the alumni office.

"Casey brings much to this job because she is not only an alumna of Texas Wesleyan law school herself, but she has been very active in the Fort Worth legal community, in the local and state bar associations and in legal education regionally and nationally," Fountaine said. "She brings enormous energy, enthusiasm, and expertise to this job, and I know she will be a huge asset to the alumni as well as to the school in this new role.”
